

Workhouse

The Cincinnati Workhouse was a Civil War era jail built around 1869 on six acres of land. There was no plumbing in the building, or should I say in the cell block, making it difficult for the prisoners for they had to use a bucket. The building was torn down in 1991.